WORKSHOPS

Saturday 9:30 a.m. – 12:30 p.m. Filer

5 sessions: September 4 – October 2

Tuition: $320

This workshop is a basic fundamental class that will teach modeling of the human head from live models, as well as from photo references. This will be achieved through demonstrations by the instructor with a focus on observation, learning to see big and small shapes, and comparison of spaces using mapping lines and other tools. Students will work from the general to the particular, using a blocking technique and working the whole head to achieve solidity and a good likeness of the model. This is not an alla prima class. It's a slower approach to painting, but is effective nonetheless.

Contemporary Drawing: Drawing Maps, Bayous, Oceans and Textures in Nature*AW 398

Saturday 9:30 a.m. – 12:30 p.m. Jolivet-McCloud

5 sessions: September 25 – October 23

Tuition: $350

This five session workshop explores new ways of drawing nature through abstraction. Students will be asked to reacquaint themselves in the way in which they interact with and view the Texas landscape. Drawing nature through the process of abstraction and minimalism will help guide students in new approaches to drawing, including drawing as meditation.

Art History: The Role of Contemporary Artist's*AW 414

Thursday 7:00 – 9:00 p.m. Guess

5 sessions: October 21 – November 18

Tuition: $200

The Role of Contemporary Artists workshop's five sessions will focus on the prospective role of African American artists during this time of racial reckoning, using such consideration as an examination of the role of artists in general. The workshop will look at influential local periods and artists, including John Biggers and the TSU School, Joseph Bueys, Social Practice and Project Row House, David McGee and Michael Ray Charles and Artists, and Black Assets and Protest.
